

KANSAS STATE vs. NEBRASKA

MEMORIAL STADIUM

OCTOBER 5, 1946

OFFICIAL 25c PROGRAM

Let me say first that it is a great source of personal satisfaction to be associated with an athletic situation such as we have here at Nebraska and to which all of us can give whole-hearted approval. We here at the University feel confident that Cornhusker football has started up the long road to the position of greatness it enjoyed before the war. We are proud of these fine young Nebraska men whom Coach Bernie Masterson has developed into an outstanding team within a remarkably short time. Today's game marks not only the opening of the home season, but the beginning of Big Six competition. We feel sure the Cornhusker "will to win" will once again, at the season's conclusion, find us a respected power in the Conference.

R. H. Gustavson

CHANCELLOR

FROM U. S. NAVY TO FOOTBALL

JOHN HAROLD ADAMS

John Harold (Hobbs) Adams doubles as athletic director and football coach at Kansas State College. He returned to Manhattan after a tour of duty with the United States Navy as a lieutenant commander. Hobbs coached the Jacksonville (Fla.) Navy Preflight eleven. He was a top flight end under the late Howard Jones at Southern California. Hobbs coached at Kansas State before being commissioned in the Navy.

BERNARD EDWARD MASTERSON

Bernard Edward (Bernie) Masterson is the first Cornhusker alumnus to return as head coach of football at the University of Nebraska. Glenn Presnell and A. J. Lewandowski, both Nebraska graduates, served as interim coaches during the war years. Coach Masterson, schooled thoroughly in the T formation as quarterback for seven years with the Chicago Bears, served as a lieutenant commander with the Navy during the war. He coached St. Mary's Preflight team in 1945.

Welcome-Kansas State!

There will be "T" for two today.

John Harold (Hobbs) Adams and Bernard Edward Masterson will pour.

Kansas State College and the University of Nebraska meet this afternoon in their thirty-first football renewal.

Hobbs Adams, now doubling as football coach and athletic director, long has been identified with the single wing since the days when he was a star end under the late Howard Jones at the University of Southern California. That was in 1925.

Hobbs, however, announced before the season started that his offense would not be limited to T-formation plays. But he hoped to use enough of it to spring some of his scat backs into the open.

Both Messrs Adams and Masterson served as lieutenant commanders in the Navy. Each coached service teams. Hobbs directed the Jacksonville Preflight team. Bernie skippered the St. Mary's Preflight eleven.

The Cornhuskers hold an edge in this Kansas State-Nebraska series which has spread over three decades. Nebraska has won 24, Kansas State 4 and two have been deadlocked.

But enough of these statistics. This monograph was intended as a warm and cordial welcome to our long-time friends from Manhattan.

These friedly foemen have provided some of the most magnificent chapters in the history of Midlands football. Today's game unquestionably will add another.

Coach Masterson had a hand in turning back Kansas State in three of the most thrilling games in which the two teams have locked horns, those of 1931, 1932, 1933. The scores were 6-3, 6-0 and 9-0. Those were the days when D. X. Bible was coaching Nebraska, A. N. (Bo) McMillin was at the Kansas State helm.

And Bernie called the signals for the Cornhuskers through those three seasons when Nebraska won the Big Six Conference title.

Both Kansas State and Nebraska have recovered from those sinking spells suffered during the war years. Each has been listed as a darkhorse in the present Conference scramble.

Today's contest will provide the answer in a large measure.

But whatever the outcome, we of Nebraska offer a low bow from the hips. We hope you visiting Kansas State players and followers have thoroughly enjoyed this annual game.

'With Bushels of Hope'

By FRED PARRIS

Kansas State Sports Publicity Director

Like the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers, the Kansas State Wildcats face this season with bushels of hope and anticipation—but also with equal amounts of fear.

The big Purple and White squad representing Kansas State this afternoon is one of the largest—both in size and number—ever to report at the Wildcat school. Hobbs Adams has a wealth of material on his hands, but the K-State coach also faces one of the most difficult schedules in the history of Kansas State football.

A large percentage of the Wildcats who will play this afternoon are freshmen. For many of them last week's game with Hardin-Simmons at Abilene, Tex., was their first taste of collegiate competition. Coach Adams, also director of athletics at K-State, believes his squad may learn enough as the season progresses to "sneak up" on one or two of the conference favorites.

One player, in particular, isn't inexperienced against the Cornhuskers. He Mike Zeleznak, a Croatian lad from Kansas City, Kan., who single-handedly defeated the 1941 Cornhusker team with two touchdown runs. Whether Zeleznak will attempt to repeat his performance this afternoon is doubtful. The 175-pound halfback has been ailing with a leg affliction and has seen little action of any sort so far this season.

Nebraska fans remember great Wildcat fullbacks of another era. Elmer (One Man Gang) Hackney, Don Wiggins, Ralph Graham, and others. This afternoon, they will watch a freshman fullback who many Wildcat enthusiasts feel will take his place alongside the Hackneys, Wiggins, Grahams and others. He is Norman Rothrock, 218-pound freshman, who came to Kansas State because he was a close friend of Mike Zeleznak and served in the army overseas with Zeleznak. He is undoubtedly one of the most powerful runners in the conference and can beat most of his teammates in a footrace.

But, for sheer speed and deception, Kansas State probably will rely today on its Scat Twins, Harry Merriman, 138 pounds of twisting flesh, and Gabe Bartley, 150-pound sprinter. Merriman plays left halfback, Bartley, right halfback.

In the line, Big Edgar McNeil appears to be one of the Big Six Conference's best tackles. He's big and fast, has the coordination which makes him a fine golfer. Adams says he has "football sense" and should rank alongside Missouri's Jim Kekeris. Playing right end for the K-Staters is the national A.A.U. junior shot put champion, Rollin Prather. Prather towers 6 feet, 5 inches, weighs nearly 220. He is inexperienced as a football player but has won a starting position.
